STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Journal says that the notorious Jack Harrigan of Lewiston, was captured at Yarmouth Junction Saturday night, in the act of loading fifty gallons of liquor on his team, by officers Stone and Hinkley of this city. Mr. Hinkley passed Harrigan on his way down the river, as he was coming up to the station from his place, Saturday afternoon. He and Stone obtained a fast horse and tracked Jack 'clear to Yarmouth. It was dark when they arrived, and Jack was unpacking his kegs. Being out of Androscoggin county, they could not make an arrest, and they quickly secured the assistance of Sheriff David M. Lawrence of Yarmouth, who bagged Harrigan and his liquor. Jack entrendered without a squeal, and was brought to this city. Twenty gallons of rum were brought here, and thirty gallons were left with the Yarmouth officer. The police have the last two months made the hottest time for the rum smugglers that they ever knew.

Cumberland.

The officers made a liquor seizure at the United States Hotel in Portland, last Friday. In the Municipal Court, Saturday, the bar-tender, stepped up and paid $100 and costs.

The Argus says Monday forenoon a man named Fickett, while shackling freight cars in the yard of the Eastern railroad, met with an accident that will probably prove fatal. It seems a pair of car trucks were on one platform car, and as Fickett bent down to slip the pin in the proper place, the jar of the cars coming together sent the trucks over the ledge placed to keep them in position, and the flange of one struck Fickett's head. He was taken into the boarding house opposite the depot and a surgeon called. The doctor found a very serious wound to the skull. He took therefrom eleven pieces of bone, varying in size from a match to the half of a finger. The man was conscious and bore the pain like a martyr. He belongs in Cape Elizabeth.

Kennebec.

The Journal says that twenty-five thousand logs lie in the water above the Kennebec dam, waiting to be turned over. At Hallowell the great boom is full, and at Brown's Island, above Augusta, the river is jammed with logs for a mile. More lumber will be floated down the Kennebec this year than ever before. It is said, as in all of the cut of last winter many of the logs cut in 1880 were not driven down last year, and so swell the rivers. It is estimated that from 140,000,000 to 160,000,000 feet of lumber will be driven down the river this summer. Logs began to run when the ice went out, and have been coming ever since, but only one-third of the vast number have yet passed over the dam. The rear drive is now at Norridgewock, and will not be along for a month.

[A Fayette correspondent writes to the Journal concerning smart old people, as follows: Mrs. Betsey Shephard is 92 years old, hale, smart and cheerful as a girl, very strict in the observance of the rules of politeness, able to do most kinds of work about the house, and walk quite a little distance to call on her neighbors, and her grandsons, the Bamfords, where she lives, are pleased to take her to ride and minister to her comfort. She is a pensioner of 1812, on account of her husband, and has been able to write, up to within six months. Mrs. Lydia Walton, who died but a short time since, was near 94, and although confined to her bed and chair on account of a fall, was one of the most wonderful instances of mental preservation I ever met. Nathaniel Gurney, aged 82, is smart and athletic as a boy, and is accustomed to amuse his young friends, with the style of dancing in his young days. His power of imitation is very acute, he being a deaf mute. He amuses his friends with his antics. He also attends to the work of his farm like a young man, and is accustomed to walk to Livermore Falls, seven miles away, to visit his friends, a very remarkable circumstance. I had the pleasure of calling on Mr. and Mrs. Moses French, of South Chesterville, just over the line from Fayette, the former being 86, and his wife Edna 93 years old, the 23d day of last November. They are living in the same house where they commenced life, nearly sixty-three years ago. They live by themselves, and do most of their work, and although Mr. French had the misfortune to fall, at two different times, and break his leg, he is now smart and able to do quite an amount of work on the farm. Uncle Frank Currier, 82 years old, can jump up and strike his feet together three times. Also Col. Samuel French, David Basford, L. M. Brown, S. N. Watson, and Dr. Noah Watson, all near 80 years of age, who attend to business with ability.]

Work on the public library building in Gardiner will be commenced at once. The plans and specifications have been received and accepted by the directors. The exact cost of the building cannot be stated, but will probably exceed the funds on hand, yet as this cash capital will be increased from time to time, the association will not be much, if any, indebted when the building is completed.

Franklin.

The Bridgton railroad committee and others interested in the enterprise, have gone to Farmington, where they are to make an examination of the narrow gauge railroad between Farmington and Phillips.

Hancock.

The Journal says that a four years old son of Mr. Nathan Jordan, of Ellsworth, was drowned the 22d inst., by falling from a wharf. The body was recovered an hour afterwards.

Mr. Elbridge G. Urann, of Ellsworth, on Saturday last, fell from a staging on which he was at work, and received very serious injuries, which is feared may prove fatal. He is 72 years of age.

Waldo.

The diphtheria has not abated any in its destructive work in Monroe, four deaths having occurred within the past ten days, and the three children and one adult have been attacked with the same dreadful malady.

York.

A barn of John W. Boston, near the town house Kennebunkport, with a few loads of hay, a pair of sleds, a sleigh, etc., was consumed by an incendiary fire on Sunday evening. Loss $250; insured $150.

Palatine, N. Y., is the richest village of its size in the world. It has about 500 inhabitants, and over 50 of them are worth from $5,000,000 to $20,000,000, while six are said to be worth more than $20,000,000. The residents are not "mined," but are undoubtedly all retired plumbers, coal dealers and editors.

AN OPEN LETTER

—FROM—

W. F. SHAW,

—TO—

HIS PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC.

The undersigned, dealer in Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Gloves, Umbrellas, etc., etc., at NO. 30 MAIN STREET, Bangor, would hereby announce to his patrons and the public generally, that on and after July 1st, the credit system of his establishment will be abolished and no sales will be made except strictly for cash.

The new departure is made without having been carefully considered. The undersigned is aware that several of his best customers who are persons of means and whose word is as good as the gold, may not fully approve of this, yet a little reflection will convince them that they will be benefitting by the change. It is the earnest desire and honest determination of the undersigned to give to his customers the best goods at the lowest possible prices. This can only be accomplished by the adoption of a cash system. By this means the salaries of book keepers and persons to keep collections are saved, and the undersigned, with the cash in hand, will be enabled to take advantage of the market and thus secure bargains which will benefit the customer. His expenses will be greatly reduced, no bad bills will be incurred, he will not then as now be obliged to carry on his books a large amount of indebtedness to the concern, on which, of course, interest is not paid, and some of which cannot be collected. It will cost the undersigned a painful effort to refuse credit to his friends and tried friends, but this rule once adopted, must be rigidly enforced. He is certainly in hopes that every reflecting person will approve of his course, as he sincerely hopes that his patrons may see that the adoption of a cash system must be mutually beneficial. He also desires to assure his customers, one and all, that they will ever receive the most courteous treatment, and pledges them that they shall receive the full benefit arising from the change, promising to them better bargains than ever before, able to obtain under any other system of conducting business.

Goods may be returned if not satisfactory, and the money will be cheerfully refunded.

Thanking his patrons for past favors and soliciting a continuance of the same, the undersigned, very respectfully, the public's obedient servant,

W. F. SHAW.

I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine, 'Favorite Remedy,' during my periods of critical illness, I should never have recovered.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. It removes all impurities of the blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to Females.

☞ When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is one dollar a bottle, and that the doctor's address is Rondout, New York. Ed. d&wlm July7

GOVERNOR RUNNING WILD.

For nearly a week all the organs of Fusionism in this State and vicinity have been chanting the praise of "Plaisted's Pluck" and boasting with high glee that he has abolished the Executive Council. The keynote of this Plaisted chorus was sounded in the Portland Argus on Saturday. In an article unquestionably furnished by himself, and which we quote elsewhere ... in order that our readers may properly admire the modesty and propriety of the present Governor of this State. There can be no possible mistake as to the authorship of that shameful statement. The scenes which he misrepresents occurred in the Council Chamber when only himself, the Councillors and the Secretary of State were present. It is perfectly obvious that no member of the Council ever told such a story, and as the Secretary of State certainly never gave out any such falsehood the ... statement could come from no one but Plaisted himself, and all who are familiar with his famous reports of his prowess as a warrior will readily recognize the same hand in the glorification of the ... back bone.

We ask the thinking men of Maine to take him at his own words and see ... which this Governor boasts ... that while the Coun[illegible] ... with himself ... [illegible] ... called upon the Senior Councillor whose duty by the Rules and ... of the Executive Department it is ... in the absence of the Governor, ... Governor thereupon smashed his gavel down upon the table, declared the Council adjourned without day and grabbing up his papers flounced out of the chamber. That is the dignified performance of the Chief Magistrate of Maine as fully proclaimed through his mouthpiece.

The talk about insulting speeches is a falsehood thrown in for effect, and the fact stands that our would be Boss in a fit of passion attempted to throttle the ... Council, adjourn the Board at his own pleasure, and with a rap of his gavel abolish one of the Constitutional branches of the State Government.

And what facts does he state to justify such high handed proceedings? He says the Council refused to confirm D. W. True as a Trustee of the State Reform School, and then proposed to lay the nomination of Albion Little on the table as a hint to him to decline, and then he goes on to ... that Mr. Little is a Republican and an experienced member of the Board of Trustees, and to arraign the Councillors for their wickedness in refusing to confirm so excellent a man.

Now let us look at the actual facts. Mr. Albion Little of Portland, a Republican and a citizen of the highest standing, has been one of the Trustees of the State Reform School for a number of years and was the efficient and honored President of the Board when his term expired about a month ago. The opportunity then offered for the Governor to recognize the usefulness which he now concedes. Did he send in the name of Mr. Little for reappointment to the office he so creditably filled? Not a bit of it. He sent to the Council the nomination of D. W. True, a Portland Fusionist, to be appointed Trustee in place of Mr Little. The Council promptly refused to confirm True, and then our dignified Governor resorted to a style of pettifogging which he has rendered somewhat familiar. He renominates True to take the place of Little on the Board and at the same time nominates Mr Little to take the place of Dr. E. A. Thompson, of Dover, who ... to be removed. Mark the tortuous and contemptible course resorted to by this Governor who whines that the Council would not confirm a good Republican as Mr Little, but he carefully seeks to conceal the fact that he deliberately arranged so that the confirmation of Mr Little involved the summary removal of Dr. Thompson, who was commissioned a year ago for four years, who had only been elected treasurer of the ..., whose official bond had just been approved by this Governor and Council who had only a few days before entered upon the duties of that office! The only outcome of this roundabout scheming ... been to put Plaisted's friend True in the place of Dr Thompson a gentleman ... his professional ... [illegible]

... Little ... Dr. Thompson ... was not for his own ... The Council ... wanted and are still anxious to confirm the reappointment of Mr Little; but the Governor thrust True forward to replace him, and when a member of the Council stated that Mr. Little was unwilling to be appointed at the cost of Dr Thompson's removal, the Governor pettifogged by saying Mr. Little had informed him he would accept a reappointment. So he would accept his old place if tendered him but he had honorably declared he would not take office at the expense of a colleague. If he had been willing to be a party to such a miserable scheme the Council would have been more than justified in preventing it. But when a member moved to lay the matter on the table until Mr Little could be heard from, before the full Board had acted or been called upon to act upon the motion, the Governor bounced in his chair, pounded furiously with his gavel and declared the Council adjourned sine die!

Here was a Constitutional body in regular session, acting under established rules of procedure, and yet in a freak of temper, without any motion being made for adjournment, without any action of the body toward adjournment, and against the unanimous protest of the Council, this autocratic Governor of ours declared the Council adjourned without day and sent through his organs the boast that he had abolished the obnoxious board until such time as he might choose to permit it to reassemble. Such a thing was never heard of before in any similar body and the records of the Executive Council from the foundation of the State show that it never was adjourned save on motion of a member regularly submitted and carried. If the Council had submitted to that act of usurpation Harris M. Plaisted would have been left Supreme Dictator of the State of Maine.

But the Executive Council of Maine did not permit themselves to be dispersed like a mob at the thump of Governor Plaisted's gavel. They are men who know something of the character of our institutions and who do not propose to be coerced or bullied in the performance of their duties. The names of Frederic Robie, of Gorham, Roscoe L. Bowers, of Saco, Joseph T. Hinckley, of Bluehill, William Wilson, of Hallowell, James G. Pendleton, of Searsport, Lewis Barker, of Bangor and Samuel N. Campbell, of Cherryfield, are not unfamiliar to the people of this State. Every one of them has served in the State Legislature, the majority of them in both branches, and two of them have acquired distinction in the Speakership of the House. They are all citizens having other than political interests at stake in the orderly administration of affairs. They were elected by the people's legislature to perform certain important Constitutional duties and they are not to be snuffed out between the thumb and fore-finger of a political mountebank.

It was Governor Plaisted who adjourned, the Council did not. He snatched up his papers and ran, but the Council quietly proceeded with the public business. The spiteful performance was nothing new to them. He had played the part of a "little Cromwell for a cent" on a previous occasion. When the Council some time since proposed that the Governor join with them in submitting to the Court the questions of authority raised by him in relation to the removal of the State Reporter, he arrogantly refused and then, when the Council proceeded to exercise the prerogative explicitly conferred upon it by the Constitution of propounding the questions itself, this remarkable Governor attempted to disperse the Council by flourishing his gavel and declaring the body adjourned. The Council however did not adjourn but in a quiet, regular lawful manner invoked the judgment of the Supreme Court, which Governor Plaisted and his organs are seeking to discredit ... [illegible] ... the Council ... work adjourned to the next day and after finishing that day's work, adjourned to a day in August when the Board will be in session as usual to discharge their official duties. The assertion that the Council followed the Governor and begged him to come back is ridiculously false. It was an afternoon performance of his quite too common to excite their surprise, and they probably smiled at the thought that he might be rehearsing for his appearance at Maranocook.

Our readers will bear in mind that the foregoing is no fabrication of partisan charges against Governor Plaisted, but that he and his supporters have come forward boasting of his achievement. After recently calling public attention to his lawless course, we determined to avoid reference to him for awhile and to see how long it would be before he would challenge public indignation. We did not have to wait long, and the position he occupies to-day as a would be usurper and revolutionist has been taken and proclaimed boastingly by himself.

In every sheet in Maine controlled or influenced by himself or friends, and to their shame be it said in numerous Democratic journals outside of our State, Governor Plaisted is lavishly applauded for his boast that he has abolished the Executive Council of the State. In his Argus letter he chuckles that the Councillors "are powerless," that he alone can call them together and that "it is not likely he will be in a hurry to do so." In another issue the Argus says the Governor had deliberately determined upon this action that the Council "are of no possible use to him now," and that "he will not be in a hurry to call them together." The Argus editorially sustains the monstrous claim that the Governor can abolish an important part of the State Government, and from the reeking Boston Globe to that hypocritical clamorer against 'centralized power,' the Philadelphia Times, every big and little organ of Greenbackism or Democracy, is glorifying Plaisted's assumption of power to adjourn an official body in spite of its members and to kick the Executive Council out of doors whenever it declines to do his bidding.

What is this body which Governor Plaisted claims to have abolished? The Constitution of Maine, Article 5 in designating the Executive Powers provides for a Council of seven persons "to advise the Governor in the executive part of government." It also provides that the power of appointment can be exercised by the Governor only "with the advice and consent of the Council," and furthermore that the exercise of that most distinctive of executive prerogatives the pardoning power, also requires "the advice and consent of the Council." The Constitution also provides that "no money shall be drawn from the Treasury but by warrant of the Governor and Council."

We might enumerate the multiplicity of executive functions which absolutely require the cooperation of the Council, but ... [illegible] ... can carry on the administration of the State without the help and in spite of the Executive Council, becomes astoundingly apparent when it is remembered that not an account can be audited or claim allowed or appropriation disbursed, and that not one cent of his own or any other salary can be drawn from the State Treasury without the action of the Council.

He has already refused to sign a warrant to pay the salary of the Supreme Court Reporter, and now he declares he has abolished the body without whose sanction no salary of any State officer or employe can be paid. He claims to have the power to annihilate the Executive Council when the free, untrammeled action of that Council is absolutely essential to the payment of the interest on our public debt. Upon his revolutionary assumptions he can paralyze the functions of government and strangle the credit of the State.

This matter has already gone far beyond a mere question of disposing of the office-patronage of the State. It is a question whether our State Government is so feeble that a third rate politician in the office of Governor can trample down all authority but his own. He began by denouncing and defying the State Judiciary, he bullied the Legislature that created him until it weakly adjourned leaving the State without Congressional or Legislative apportionment, and with the sole power of reconvening the Legislature in his own hands; and now he has attempted to disperse and disband the Executive Council, and so remove the last vestige of restraint upon his assumptions of power.

It would seem about time for the average citizen to begin to ask whether our gubernatorial autocrat proposes to leave us any vestige of constitutional government.

Mr. Joseph Cook is now in Germany. He proposes to go from there to India, and then to Australia, on his way round the world.

[From the Portland Argus.]

PLAISTED'S PLUCK.

The Governor Adjourns the Council Sine Die.

[Special despatch to the Argus.]

AUGUSTA, July 22

There is trouble in the Republican wigwam. The village statesmen who compose the Governor's Council have got themselves into a lovely fix, and now they don't know how to get themselves out. And in truth it is a vexatious question. It arose in this wise.

At the last meeting of the Governor and Council, Wednesday, July 13th the nominations of D. W. True and Albion Little, as trustees of the Reform School, were considered. As stated in a previous report, the Council were unanimous in refusing to confirm the former, and when Mr Little's name was taken up Councillor Bowers, at the close of a lengthy speech, full of insulting flings at the Governor, moved that the nomination lay upon the table until Mr Little's declination could be received. The insulting nature of this motion becomes apparent when it is borne in mind that Mr. Little is a Republican, and that he has just served on the board of trustees at the Reform School. Mr Little being a Republican, the Council could hardly vote against his confirmation and yet their stubborn determination to thwart the Governor, they resolved to lay his nomination on the table, thus giving him a hint to decline before the next meeting of the Council. The Governor keeping his temper with rare control, stated to the Council that he had talked with Mr Little in regard to his reappointment and that the latter had given him to understand it would be acceptable.

Mr Bowers, however, insisted upon his motion with another tirade against the Governor. The latter refused to entertain the motion. Then My Lord Bowers called upon Col Robie, chairman of the board, to put the motion. This was a sticker for the Colonel. He wanted to do it, and yet hardly dared to. But the Governor put a stop to his mental conflict. In short order he rose and taking up the gavel brought it down with force upon the table saying, "Gentlemen, this Council is adjourned sine die." He then gathered up his papers and returned to his own room.

This proceeding was like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. The councillors gazed at each other in dismay. They had underestimated the quality of the Governor's back bone. In their efforts to push him to the wall, they had gone a step too far and the too patient Governor had at last struck back with such force and directness as to leave them there amid the tumbling logs of their political wigwam.

For the first time a sense of shame at their conduct possessed them, and after a hurried consultation it was agreed to send two of their number to the Governor's room and urge him to reconsider his motion. But the lion in the Governor's nature had been thoroughly aroused and he sternly refused to do anything of the kind. Finally every member of the Council gathered in his room but to no purpose. Finding their efforts vain, they begged him not to mention the affair to the representatives of any of the papers, and he agreed not to do so, and so far as the Argus, at least, is concerned, he has not. But the Argus has a hundred ears as well as a hundred eyes, and into one of those ears a gentleman who this evening accidentally overheard a Councillor tell the story to a friend repeated it.

But think of the condition of the poor Councillors, who for a week past have been going about repeating mournfully "When shall we seven meet again?" They have consulted lawyers and politicians and in every case are told that they are powerless. The Governor alone has authority to call them together, and when the shameful way in which they have treated him is considered, it is not likely that he will be in a great hurry to do so. Poor Councillors! Like Othello, their occupation's gone—officially speaking. They ... the substance of authority, only the shadows remain with them.

AUGUSTA.

MR. CONKLING'S RETIREMENT

Ex-Senator Conkling is reported by The Critic, of Washington, as saying to one of its reporters Monday "I am done with politics now and forever. This fight is over and I shall hereafter devote my time and purpose of life to my law practice."

"Is it not true, Senator, that you will enter the next Presidential race?"

"No, most emphatically no! It has been said that it is possible that I would be brought forward as a candidate in the next campaign, but I am not at all solicitous of the honor."

"I hear some talk about your being tendered and accepting a Justiceship on the supreme bench of the United States."

"There is not a word of truth in the report. I was tendered the Chief Justiceship during President Grant's Administration and declined it. You can rest assured that I shall not accept the position, even if it were tendered me."

NOT PROUD OF ROBERTS

[From the Galveston News (Dem.)]

It is deeply to be regretted that Governor Roberts has shown an apparent contempt for this maxim in his unfortunate and needless refusal to unite with the other Governors in recommending a day of thanksgiving and prayer for the recovery of the President. It is at least some satisfaction to feel assured that in this matter he can not be pointed to as an exponent of Texas, of the South, or of the Southern Democracy. His phenomenal and exceptional attitude may be attributed by some persons, who have studied his habits with a more critical than friendly eye, to a studious cultivation of oddity and a prurient desire for notoriety. There can be no question that if such a desire has ... [illegible] ... spread on the wings of the telegraph and blazoned through the papers. In fact, it must be conceded that Governor Roberts, by his deliberate repulse of the invitation to participate with all the other Governors in thanksgiving proceedings on account of the President's probable escape from death by assassination will acquire a national and even world-wide reputation, which Guiteau himself might envy.

THAT FAMOUS RAILWAY RIDE

Mr. Howe, the private secretary of Postmaster Pearson, of New York, who accompanied Dr Hamilton on his famous ride to Washington, says the train was started in eight minutes from the arrival at the Jersey City depot, and that in spite of a delay of fifteen minutes to shunt express trains on to sidings the actual time between Jersey City and Philadelphia was 1 hour and 12 minutes. He says:

On arriving at the Pennsylvania depot in Philadelphia we found Dr. Agnew on the platform awaiting our arrival. Another special train, consisting of a powerful engine and the private car of the late Colonel Scott, was in readiness. There was no delay whatever and almost before we could appreciate the fact we were rolling over the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Road at a tremendous speed. It was impossible to stand up in the car without holding on to something. Dinner had been prepared for the party and it had to be eaten with care; otherwise the dishes would have fallen from the table. Glasses had to be drained at a draught or they and their contents would have been on the floor of the car. Such speed I never traveled at before, and I have been over some pretty fast mail routes. We ran sixty miles from Philadelphia in less than 59 minutes, and made the distance to Bay View, three miles this side of Baltimore and ninety-three miles from Philadelphia, in 1 hour and 52 minutes. This included two stops for water and slowing up five times while crossing bridges. At Bay View we took the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, passed through the Baltimore tunnels without stopping and arrived at the Baltimore depot in Washington, where General Garfield received his wound, at 7 51 o'clock, the trip having been made in 4 hours and 42 minutes from Jersey City. Dr. Bliss met us at the depot with his carriage and drove the party direct to the White House.

A telegram from Atlantic City says that a subscription has been opened there for the purpose of purchasing a cottage for President Garfield. A rich Philadelphian, who withheld his name, put down $500 as a starter and promised a like sum when the amount had reached $10,000. It is proposed to buy one of the best cottages at Atlantic City and present it to the President.

The heat in Italy for some time is said to be almost intolerable. A hot sirocco which gives no relief has kept the thermometer for days vacillating between 88 and 100 degrees. The harvesting has been a laborious and dangerous task. A dispatch says Out of a body of 200 soldiers marched out for exercise one morning early, ten men fell by the roadside before reaching Rome, again of whom two died.

Most of the western newspapers are not apt to be over modest in telling a story, but there is such a thing as overstepping the bounds of credence. Every one has read of the many fanciful stories of human hair being turned white by fright in a single night. This will do well enough—for a story, but a Colorado newspaper puts a damper on such wild statements by telling a thrilling story describing how terror caused a flock of sixty-two black sheep in that state to become perfectly white between twilight and daylight. This is enough to have made Baron Munchausen himself hang his head in shame.

A Pittsburg paper tells of an ingenious watchmaker at Newcastle, Pa., who has manufactured a set of gold studs, three in number, one of which is a tiny watch. It keeps excellent time. The dial is about three-eighths of an inch in diameter. The studs are caught together by a narrow strip of silver, to be worn beneath the shirt bosom. The middle one contains the watch. Turning the stud above winds it, and the hands are set by means of the one below. A remarkable feature of the miniature timepiece, is that it works with a pendulum, like a clock, and this pendulum acts with ease and accuracy in no matter which position the watch is placed, even should it be turned upside down.

The Cup that Cheers but not Inebriates.

Since water has become the fashionable drink in Maine, numerous springs of this excellent beverage have been brought into notice, and some of our Maine springs are achieving a national reputation. Of one of these, the Lake Auburn, the Lowell Daily Courier speaks in complimentary terms. The Courier says: A great many people do not go ... like Merrimac river water as a beverage. Most of our wells are even worse than the river. What can be substituted? The Lake Auburn Mineral Spring Company has just started a big trade in its water, which is an admirable beverage, and if one simply uses it for drinking purposes the cost is trifling. Most people have an idea that a "mineral spring" water must have a peculiar taste—that it must have what Mr Weller called "a smack of warm flat-irons about it, or some vile salty or alkaline taste. This is not so. Lake Auburn water is tasteless, colorless, pure, sparkling water. It has medicinal qualities, but they consist in its purity as much as anything. An absolutely pure water, nearly free from organic matter, and possessing only certain qualities which the taste does not discover, it is quite as efficacious in purifying the system as some water which "smells to heaven," and can be drank only by holding the nose. Such a water is not for use as a beverage, it is to be taken like other nauseous doses, as a medicine. Lake Auburn water is to all appearance and taste not only the purest, softest and most agreeable spring water, but it is said to act wonderfully on systems polluted by impure blood, or deranged in their organic functions. Twenty barrels of the water have lately been sold in Lowell, and it is coming into very general use. July23

A STEADY IMPROVEMENT

In the President's Condition.

He Passes Another Comfortable Day,

AND ALL THE SYMPTOMS ARE NOW CONSIDERED FAVORABLE.

PULSE 90 AT NOON.

Dr. Hamilton Very Hopeful.

Wednesday's Bulletins.

A Comfortable Night.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 27. The information received this morning from the sick room is in effect that the President passed a comfortable night, having obtained during the night at intervals fully six hours' sleep. After midnight a slight rise of temperature occurred, but soon passed away. There were no indications of rigor during the night. The President has expressed himself as feeling better this morning.

[8 A. M.]

OFFICIAL.

The President slept sweetly last night from about 8 P. M. to 5 A. M., with but a single break of short duration at 11 P. M. Since five this morning he has dozed quietly, awakening at intervals. There have been no rigors. He takes his nourishment well and his general condition is improving. He expressed himself as feeling better and more rested. Pulse 91, temperature 98 4, respiration 18

Very Encouraging View.

NEW YORK, July 27. A Washington despatch says one of the President's physicians stated late Tuesday night, as follows: "I have had many cases of gunshot wounds as bad as the President's, and have never had a serious one with fever complications. From the beginning of this case I have not had two minutes of nervousness over it; I have lost neither sleep nor appetite. I now say confidently that in my judgment the President will surely get well, unless complications should arise altogether improbable and unexpected. We believe we have the case under control.

A Despatch from Postmaster General James.

WASHINGTON, July 27. To H. G. Pearson, Postmaster New York: We are all rejoicing over the marked improvement in the condition of the President. It is now believed that any further danger of the recurrence of a chill is averted. There seems to be no obstacle in the way of recovery. He slept nearly nine hours last night and is refreshed and strengthened. Dr. Boynton just assured me that the patient is better than at any time since his injury. Pulse 91, temperature 98; respiration 18.

(Signed) THOMAS L. JAMES.

UNOFFICIAL.

Dr. Boynton's Views.

Dr. Boynton, just from the President's chamber, reports the patient in excellent spirits. He says his undisturbed sleep of last night really rested him, and that he has partaken of increased nourishment. This morning the favorable change in the President's condition is plainly visible on the countenances of the immediate attendants of the sick room, who, during the period of the fever which occurred subsequent to the incision, bore expressions of anxiety and looked generally careworn. This morning the same persons may be seen about the house bearing cheerful countenances and exhibiting an air of gratification. When asked what truth there was in the statement that Mrs. Garfield had suffered extremely from the effects of the strain upon her mind during the past few days, Dr. Boynton, while admitting that she had been anxious, said there was no foundation whatever for the report which has gone abroad to the effect that she was ill. In fact, Mrs. Garfield is feeling brighter and in better spirits this morning than at any time since she was sick. You may say that she went to ride last evening, and returned feeling refreshed, and that her husband's present condition is very encouraging to her."

[OFFICIAL.]

The President's wound was dressed just after the morning bulletin was issued. It looks well and the pus, which is healthy in character, is discharged freely. Since then he rested quietly and takes his nourishment readily and without gastric disturbance. At present his pulse is 90; temperature 98 4; respiration 18. Signed by the Surgeons.

Dr. Hamilton's Remarks on the President's Condition.

NEW YORK, July 27. The only information which Dr. Frank H. Hamilton has received since yesterday from the White House, was contained in the despatch from Dr. Agnew announcing the extraction of the splinters of bone, and saying the President was comfortable and his condition satisfactory. "The extraction of the splinters of bone was what I referred to yesterday," said Dr. Hamilton, this morning. "We knew some days ago that such splinters existed and would come out in the course of time. As they do so the irritation will subside and the mouth of the wound will be enlarged, and thus allow more room for the introduction of larger disinfecting probes and freer egress of pus. The more thoroughly we can get at the wound the better are our facilities for keeping it open and clean.

I am having some new probes made by Tiemann, which may be found to fit the President's wound better than those we have, but I can't tell as to that until they are tried. They may be found to be useless. Perfect drainage in this case is of great importance. If we had a drainage tube running out at the bottom of the wound as well as at the top, the President could snap his fingers at the doctors and get well to suit himself. The fact that the ball lies in an out of the way place hard to reach, and where an abscess of some sort now probably exists, is what is likely to make the case a tedious one. Nature must get the ball out, and nature may be trusted to do a good deal. The President having got so far on the way to recovery, having passed the danger of the shock of hemorrhage, peritonitis and exhaustion, we have every reason to hope he will not break down now that suppuration and possible danger of pyæmia are to be fought against. The talk about the chills of Friday being unmistakable sign of pyæmia was all wrong. I have seen hundreds of pyæmic patients and their appearance is not to be mistaken; their breath also is sweet like molasses. There is nothing of this kind about the President and none of the pallor and none of the apathy to be noticed in pyæmia.

Any acute irritation is likely to cause chills. The presence of pus irritates the body and chills come on. I am pretty sure, although I have never tried it, that I could produce a chill in a sick man by persistently pricking any one of the sensitive nerves around the eye ball for half an hour with a needle. You know that I have never been over sanguine in this matter, and have said all along that the President was a sick man. Well, it is my candid opinion now that the chances for recovery are in his favor.

Dr. Hamilton will leave late to-night for Washington by the fast express in order to relieve Dr. Agnew. He will not return to New York until Saturday morning."

UNOFFICIAL.

The very favorable symptoms noted in the last official bulletin continues. The President is free from fever and resting quietly. Dr. Agnew returned to Philadelphia to-day, but Dr. Hamilton will take his place to-night or to-morrow.

Blaine to Lowell.

WASHINGTON, July 27. The following was sent by the Secretary of State to Lowell, Minister at London: At 1 P. M. the President's condition was greatly improved. His pulse was down to 90, temperature and respiration normal and appetite good. His sleep last night was very refreshing.

(Signed) BLAINE.

UNOFFICIAL.

Dr. Bliss reports a continued and steady improvement in the President's condition. He has been very quiet and comfortable throughout the day; has taken nourishment in increased quantities without any symptoms of gastric disturbance; slept peacefully at intervals without anodynes and up to this hour has been entirely free from fever. All his symptoms in the judgment of the attending surgeons are full of encouragement.

[7 P. M.]

OFFICIAL.

The President is still resting quietly. He has been able to take more nourishment to-day than for several days past, and up to the present hour had no febrile rise of temperature. His wound has just been dressed. It looks well and has continued to discharge healthy pus in sufficient quantity during the day. Pulse now 96; temperature 98.5; respiration 20. Signed as usual.

[11 P. M.]

WASHINGTON, July 27. The following was sent to-night by the Secretary of State:

To Lowell, Minister at London:

At 11 P. M. the President's physicians give the most favorable account of his condition. There is a conspicuous improvement in his digestion and in the restfulness of his sleep. We are by no means relieved from anxiety, but are growing more hopeful.

(Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

The patient thought to have recovered the ground lost by the recent relapse.

The marked improvement in the President's condition which begun to be apparent yesterday has continued steadily throughout the day, and in the judgment of the attending surgeons the patient has fully recovered the ground lost by the recent relapse. He has taken more nourishment to-day than in any equivalent period since last Friday, and, has several times expressed himself as feeling much better. The entire absence of the febrile rise this P. M. is regarded as a very encouraging feature of the case.

For the first time in more than three weeks the patient's temperature at the evening examination was to-day normal. There has been no further exploration of the wound in search of the fragments of bone and there is no indication of the existance of such fragments, or of any obstruction or source of irritation whatever. The pus flows out naturally and freely through the new incision, and is of a perfectly healthy character.

After the evening dressing of the wound the patient slept quietly for three hours and awoke a few moments since feeling greatly refreshed. He has no fever and has had none since yesterday. His pulse is now below 100 and his temperature and respiration are normal. The attending surgeons, although by no means free from anxiety, express themselves that the improvement is a permanent gain, and that the President is on the way to recovery.

Dr. Hamilton arrived here from New York at ten o'clock to-night.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Resignation of J. W. Simonton—His Successor.

NEW YORK, July 27. J. W. Simonton, General Agent of the New York Associated Press, some time since tendered his resignation owing to ill health and the pressure of private interests. The association endeavored to induce him to retain his position. Mr. Simonton, however, insisted upon the acceptance of his resignation to take place not later than the first of October, in order to devote himself to his private interests and especially to recover his health impaired by a too close attention to office duties.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the New York Associated Press today the following expression of opinion of the association in regard to the voluntary retirement of J. W. Simonton as general agent was adopted.

That Mr. Simonton has been general agent of the association since November, 1866, and that in all these years he has discharged the duties of his responsible and industrious work with great fidelity to the several members of the association, and with general acceptance to the public.

The office is one which requires capacity, integrity and industry, and we have never found the general agent wanting in any of the qualities. Mr. Simonton leaves the association of his own free will and not at the request or wish of any one of its members. In accepting his resignation our best wishes go with him for his complete restoration to health, and for his personal happiness and prosperity in all the future of his life.

Mr. J. C. Hueston, at present Associated Press Agent in London, has been chosen as Mr. Simonton's successor.

THE SPRAGUE ESTATE.

No Settlement definitely arranged.

NEW YORK, July 27. Regarding the rumors that a syndicate has been formed for purchasing the Sprague estate and settling with the creditors, Gen. Pryor, one of the lawyers of Sprague, states that no settlement has yet been definitely arranged. A proposition is now pending between the creditors of the Spragues, which will probably result in the purchase of the property by William Amasa Mory and Fanny Sprague. If a settlement can be affected all litigation will cease at once. There never has been a syndicate in the matter. Gen. Butler never proposed to purchase property, nor will he in event of its purchase have any interest whatever. The arrangements contemplated, is the purchase of the property by the Spragues who will secure the funds to pay for it on mortgage. The amount to be paid is something like $3,500,000 or $4,000,000, and this will give the creditors 45 or 50 per cent of their claims.

The rules and regulations of the campmeeting will be strictly enforced, proper officers being present day and night.

FRYEBURG, July 27. A man calling himself Wm. Johnson Smith was arrested this forenoon at F. Shirley's farm house, near this village, having in his possession a stolen team. The horse gave evidence of a hard night's drive and proved to belong to Wm. Jones, of Salem, Mass.

A WHIRLWIND.

Property Destroyed in Cumberland County.

PORTLAND, July 27. A whirlwind passed through Cumberland Center and Yarmouth last night, mowing a path a quarter of a mile wide through fields, fences and orchards, destroying crops and snapping off trees six inches in diameter. No buildings were in the track, but many houses had their glass shattered by the heavy hail which accompanied it. About fifty farmers lost crops valued at two hundred to four hundred dollars.

HONORED AND BLEST.

When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.—Democrat.

A FOOL ONCE MORE.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my folly proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such folly pays.—H. W., Detroit, Mich.—Free Press.

We know of persons that have suffered for thirty years that have been permanently cured by taking Kidney-Wort a short time. Try it, either liquid or dry.—Sun.

A PUBLIC DUTY.

We are not in the habit of puffing any sort of patent medicines in our columns, for the business of a newspaper is to let people know what is going on in the world, and not to lend aid to what may be an imposition. But we happen to know Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and can personally testify to the excellence of the medicine which the doctor calls "Favorite Remedy." And if a word of ours will persuade anybody to use it, and thus find relief from suffering, no professional etiquette shall hinder us from saying that word. For diseases of the blood, kidneys and bowels it has no equal. We would not be without it for five times the dollar that it costs.—Daily Times. d&w2w Jy13

Hardly a farmer in this county but what has suffered to some extent. It is reported that in the town of Lincoln one thousand tons have been spoiled. Much of the hay that has been put into the barns is quite black, and some of it mouldy. It will be only fit for bedding. Those who buy hay next winter will have to pay roundly for it.

ACCIDENT ON THE GRAND TRUNK. Tuesday morning the freight train out from Portland, over the Grand Trunk, proceeded all right until, when on the steep grade, about a mile and a half west of West Paris, a truck on one of the cars broke and the train of sixteen cars all left the track. No one was injured but the cars were piled up, one on the other, and the track torn up for some distance. The loss to the company will be about $20,000. The boats leave at eight o'clock sharp.

FISH BARRELS. The unusual activity in the fish-barrel market continues and staves and headings are in greater demand and selling for better prices than they have been for several years. The destruction of the mills at Greatworks was a great misfortune to the stave business, as they made large quantities there. The other mills are now taxed to their utmost capacity, and large orders are frequently received from other States, but cannot be filled, as the demand for home consumption far exceeds the supply.

THE CHADBOURNS ARRESTED AGAIN. We were informed last evening that Marshal Reed had obtained sufficient evidence to cause the arrest of Benj. County Attorney Peakes will conduct the prosecution, assisted by Marshal Reed, who in working up the case has shown himself a skillful detective.

A WOMAN THAT IS WANTED. The woman whom it is thought drowned the babe in Mousam river, near Kennebunk, last week, is an American woman 25 to 30 years old, medium height, pitted in the face and nose by small pox marks, brownish hair, blunt Roman nose, large hands. She went to Kennebunk on a train from Portland Tuesday afternoon of last week. She was dressed in dark clothes, black straw hat with red or scarlet flowers on back of hat. Chain and locket, band ring on a finger of the left hand. Had a blue knit shawl, also a plaid shawl. She had with her a female child a few weeks old, dressed in white dress and pointed trimming around bottom and sleeves. The child was light complexioned, brown hair, nose like the mother's. The woman registered her name at Mousam House, "Fannie Smith, Rochester, N. H.," and left by Wednesday forenoon early Boston and Maine train toward Portland without the child.

The Dry Goods Trade.

"This dull weather must have a depressing effect upon your business," remarked our reporter last evening to one of our leading dry-goods merchants. "Ladies do not care so much for 'fine feathers' when gloomy skies prevail." "Well, as to that," said the merchant, "no doubt the dry-goods trade has been less brisk than it otherwise would have been, but, after all, business is certainly good. There never was a time when the ladies in this city dressed better than they do to-day. What I mean to say is that they dress with good taste. Of course I don't include the cow-bell shaped dresses of our grandmothers that are worn by a few young ladies, which can hardly be said to be becoming. Of late years bright colors have prevailed, and the fashions have been such as to create a great demand for trimmings. In fact the sale of trimmings has been lately the biggest part of our trade; but while the ladies are enabled to match their old dresses with new and fashionable trimmings, and thus economize on the material, it costs a good deal to get a dress made in the prevailing mode. There is twice the work put into a dress of to-day than was the case a few years ago. But all this is going out of date. Quaker styles of dress, of sombre colors, are to be the fashion. The bright plumage of the ladies of to-day is to be succeeded by quiet colors and simplicity. Such dresses will draw less heavily upon the pocket-book, and of course, for a time at least, will be popular. Yes, sir, I may say that the dry-goods trade has been very good this season. It has been steady. Why before the war, the bulk of our sales were made on Saturdays. Trade would be light all through the week until Saturday, and then there was a grand rush. In those days, the clerks ate their dinners in the store on Saturdays, being too busy to go home. Now there is a good trade every day, the sales on Saturday not being very greatly in excess of other days. But, best of all, very few of our customers think of asking for credit. The very people who before and during the war ran up extravagant bills, prefer to accompany their orders with the cash. I might add that this has been a prosperous season with the dressmakers."

COLBY CLASS OF '81.

[From Zion's Advocate.]

The class of '81 is the largest Colby ever graduated. At this college scholarship, attendance, and deportment establish the ranking, of which there are four grades, designated as follows: English Oration, Oration, Dissertation, and Essay. The English Oration indicates the greatest excellence or highest rank.

Of the thirty-four graduates six were under twenty-one years of age. Each of the seven youngest, constituting one-fifth of the entire class, received the highest ranking (English Oration), and to one of this number, Charles M. Coburn of Skowhegan, was awarded the Senior Prize Essay. These facts concerning the youngest members of the class of '81 are not only creditable to the "Boys" and gratifying to their numerous friends, but reflect honor and credit on the institution.

Beside the one mentioned as receiving the Prize Essay, there are two others who are entitled to honorable mention.

They are the two youngest "Boys" of the class, Charles B. Wilson, of Waterville, nineteen years of age, son of the late Dr. John Wilson, and grandson of Rev. Adam Wilson, D. D.; and Frank D. Bullard, twenty years of age, son of Dr. W. B. Bullard, of Lincoln. These two, being the very youngest in the class, are worthy of special mention as earning by persevering industry their standing among the very first of the highest grade in ranking.

OBSERVER.

[Considering the fact that this Institution is second to none in the State for proficiency and thoroughness in instruction, the above is a highly creditable record of the youngest members of the graduating class of '81, and we are glad to claim one of them as the worthy son of one of the most respected citizens of our own county.—ED. COMRADE: The annual re-union of this Association will be held at Portland, August 23d, 24th and 25th, in connection with and forming a part of the Grand Reunion of all the Maine Veterans. Notify all comrades you may know, and send the names of members of either of the four regiments above named to the Secretary. Per order,

A GOOD INTRODUCTION.

Favorite Remedy was introduced into Connecticut in 1877, at the solicitation of Rev. J. G. Smith, of Hartford, who, after having suffered for years from Chronic Liver Disease and Indigestion, obtained the medicine and was cured. This faithful pastor, thinking of the bodies as well as the souls of his people, at once commenced the advocacy of "Favorite Remedy" among them, and has been the happy instrument of saving scores of lives. Favorite Remedy is now as well and favorably known in Connecticut as along the Hudson. One dollar a bottle. All druggists have it. Dr. David Kennedy, Proprietor, Rondout, N. Y. d&w2w Jy13

TAPE AND HORSE-HAIR WORMS.

Editor:—It used to be a source of ...e curiosity to me, and perhaps it may ...ll be to some of your many readers, ...here these worms came from. Thinking ...is may be the case I venture to send you ...hort article upon these subjects. And ...start with let me say that I am not to ...e any professional names or expressions, ...herefore a number of different kinds of ...tapeworm, but a description of one ...ll suffice for the whole as they all are ...y similar. In length this worm varies ...m five to two hundred and fifty feet, ac...ding to age and variety, and is made up ...segments or joints which are from one-...th to five-sixths of an inch in length, de...nding upon whether they are near or re...te from the head, (the smallest being ...xt the head.) In width, the segments ...pend upon the kind of worm—in some ...gs about the same as the length—in ...ers greater and in others less. In color ...e are white.

...ow how came them in the intestines, ...d do they generate there? At one time ...was supposed they arose spontaneously, ...this idea was soon abandoned, and the ...ound taken that the eggs were laid in the ...wel and there hatched—or they were ...allowed in some way with the food. ...t this would not stand investigation, for ...has been proven that one of the eggs ...l not hatch in the human bowel, and ...w it is absolutely proven that what does ...ur is this, as I said, the egg of the tape...orm will not hatch while it is in the hu...an body. But some one may say where ...n does the worm come from? This will ...shown presently. Some of Nature's ...ws regarding development are very cu...us and apparently unnecessarily com...cated—but the wisdom of it in this case ...t be obvious to any one. This particu...case comes under what is called Alter...Generus. That is, the young are born ...e place and develope in another. The ...inal in which it is born being called its ..., for the reason, I suppose, that it en...ains the second generation. The Host ...ng in this case the sheep usually; though ...may be the pig or ox. The eggs of the ...rm are passed out of the bowels along ...h the excretions; these eventually find ...ir way on to the land. The sheep—we ...d use only this animal for illustration—...nibbling the grass swallows some of the ...gs, which now hatch into little roundish ...lles. These little fellows are provided ...h a set of hook-like processes by which ...y cling to the wall of the intestine. In ...is state it is called the Bladder-worm, on ...count of its body being shaped like a ...dder. It is also provided with a boring ...paratus by means of which it works its ...y through the walls of the intestine. ...t of them find their way into the liver, ...some get into the muscular tissue. He ...o does not well cook the meat must ...e the consequences, which is a fully de...loped tape worm, for as soon as it finds ...elf in the human bowel, a transforma...n begins. Moral—always have meat well cooked. People suffering with tape...orm frequently speak of its "gnawing," ...w this is not so, for they have no mouth ...alimentary canal, but a water-vascular ...tem connecting between the segments. ...y are provided with suckers by means ...which they take up their food. Often ...get coiled up and in this way produce ...rious obstruction to the passage of food ...g the intestine, and it is this which ...es the pain spoken of as "gnawing," ...ey seldom produce death, though the ...truction may be so great as to prove ...l—and in children may cause death by ...ex convulsions. One can never feel ...e of being rid of the worm till its head ...s come away. This can be easily recog...ed by its being very much smaller than ...rest of its body and covered with little ...k spots.

...osely allied to this is the horse hair ...m. I say closely allied to it not from ...looks, but from the similarity of devel...ment. It is this worm which is frequently ...nd in mud puddles and watering troughs ...out barn yards. I suppose that it is for ...reason, viz., that it is so often seen ...out barns and so closely resembles a ...se hair, that so many people imagine it ...e a transformed horse hair. You might ...t as well argue with a politician as to ...nvince one of these people of the ...or of his ways. I used to think that a ...se hair put in a bottle of water and kept ...a certain length of time would turn to ...live worm, but for some reason it never ...s successful in my hands. Now the ...st of the horse-hair worm is the grass ...per, and the particular part of the ...shopper is his thigh. Don't laugh, ...trange as it may seem, it is true. It ...ry curious the way all this comes ...t. As soon as the puddle in which the ...rm is, begins to dry up, he commences ...weave a substance, resembling fine cot..., about any blade of grass or weed ...ich may be near. This web is full of ...nute eggs. The water all dries up now ...leaves the eggs clinging to the grass. ...grasshopper happens along and lights ...his blade of grass he gets some of the ...m on its body. It has the habit of rub...g its legs over its body much as the ...usefly does. In this way the eggs are ...cked into the thighs. While here they ...dergo a process similar to the egg of the ...pe worm. When the grasshopper dies, ...may fall into a puddle of water or in a ...ough, and as soon as it does the little an...mals immediately transform into horse-...r worms.

...t is maintained by some, but it is not ...erally accepted, that leprosy is due to ...germ whose host is the mosquito. The ...squito sucks the blood of a leper and ...rwards another not having the disease, ...t may be accidentally swallowed after ...ing bitten the leper. This is merely a ...y. F. S. M.
